Alaska's Coal Product.

Alaska may enter the lists as a coal-producing country. Already eighteen veins of coal have been examined, of thicknesses varying from six feet to a few inches. The geological formation of the coal deposit belongs to the myocene period. They are consequently lignites or of lignitic character. Some of them are rich in carbon and bear shipment well. They are sufficiently near the sea to be easily and cheaply loaded on vessels; 67,247 tons were produced from the Alaska mines in 1894. In 1899, 121,820 short tons were produced.

The Kipatu is on the marine railway, where her repairs and cleaning are being completed.

The Inter-Island wharf is very much crowded. Much delay in handling freight is caused thereby. The Kaula, from Kaula, the Wai-aleale, from Maui, and the Kaala, from Oahu ports, are expected today.

The Likie took several pieces of machinery for the Kohala Sugar Company from the Honolulu Iron Works yesterday.

The Likie sailed for Maui and Hawaii ports at 5 p. m. yesterday. She took nearly 2000 bags of fertilizer from Wilder's wharf.

The Kilauea Hou arrived from Hawaii and Maui ports yesterday with 2956 sacks of sugar, 50 head of cattle and 56 bales of wool.

The steamer Ke Au Hou sailed for Kaula at 5 p. m. yesterday with the twenty-six Kaula passengers that had been in quarantine for the last five days.

Two policemen were on duty yesterday keeping people off Wilder's wharf, where the fertilizer for the other islands was being loaded aboard the Likie.

The small wharf back of the Pacific Mail dock is to be used for the accommodation of garbage wagons. Rubbish will be dumped over the sides on scows, which will carry and deposit it at sea.

A large amount of freight has been piled up just outside the Pacific Mail wharf. It is covered with canvas and no one is allowed to approach it. The soldiers on duty have dubbed the edges of the freight the "dead line."

A sailor from the John McLeod deserted Wednesday morning. He was caught and sent aboard again, and put into irons. He succeeded in freeing himself by jumping overboard and swimming ashore without being detected. The vessel left without the man.

The W. G. Hall will leave for Hawaii and Maui at 3 p. m. today. Her regular time of sailing is 10 a. m., but owing to delay in discharging and loading freight it became necessary to postpone her departure. She will probably return on time.

PURSER POOR IN TROUBLE.

Arrested for Violating Board of Health Regulations.

After the arrival of the Australia Port Surveyor Sanders received information that the vessel had brought down a quantity of opium. No vessel except the Likie, of which Frank Poor was purser, went alongside the Australia during her stay at this port.

The Port Surveyor supposed from this that the opium must have gone aboard the Likie. A permit was obtained to search the steamer. Mr. Sanders left the Oceanic dock in a quarantined boat and went to the Inter-Island wharf, at which place the Likie was tied.

When he got aboard he saw Purser Poor going toward the railroad wharf in a scow. He asked the captain where Poor was going, and received the information that he was leaving the ship. He had sent his clothes and other effects ashore at the Inter-Island wharf.

The action of Poor in leaving the Likie while in quarantine looked very suspicious. A warrant was sworn out against him and his house searched, but nothing in the shape of opium could be found. Poor was arrested later for violating Board of Health regulations by leaving the Likie.

He has been succeeded as purser of the Likie by George Washington Smith.

Horseless Vehicles.

The Chicago Times-Herald announces ten entries of automobile vehicles to contest in the road race in November next. The same journal describes the Benz automatically propelled vehicle, imported from Germany by Mr. H. Mueller, of Decatur, Ill., and used by him since last May on the highways of central Illinois. This vehicle has the appearance of a high bodied phaeton and is propelled by the explosion of gas made from crude gasoline and ignited by an electric spark. The vehicle carries four persons and recently with three persons made a run of thirteen miles over country roads in 45 minutes.

The bark Santiago, now discharging her cargo of general merchandise at Hilo, will come to Honolulu as soon as that work is finished to be registered under the Hawaiian flag.

LAI D TO REST.

Funeral of Ex-Princess Poomaikelani—Interment in Mausoleum.

The funeral of the late ex-Princess Poomaikelani, sister of the Dowager Queen Kapiolani, took place yesterday afternoon from St. Andrews Cathedral. The cathedral was crowded in every part with the friends of the deceased, principally Hawaiians.

The chief mourners were ex-Princess Kawanakoa and Kalani-anole. In the seat behind them were Chief Justice Judd, Judge Whiting and Paul Neumann. Others present were John Ena and wife, the sisters and pupils of St. Andrews Priory, Captain Tripp, Mrs. Gulick, Sir Robert Herron, Mrs. Haahele, Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Smithies.

The service was read in Hawaiian by the Bishop of Honolulu, and the surplined choir sang two hymns, Wray Taylor presiding at the organ. The floral offerings were most beautiful. The remains were interred in the Mausoleum, Nuuanu Valley, where all the kings and queens are buried.

It is understood that the deceased lady in her will has remembered St. Andrews Priory and Iolani College. She was a member of St. Andrews Cathedral congregation.

PASSENGERS IN QUARANTINE.

Number for Hawaii and Maui Begin Five Days' Term.

Now that the Kaula people have left the quarantine station, the Maui and Hawaii contingent will be given a chance to lock themselves up from the outside world for the privilege of returning to their homes. The latter are quite elated over the report made by the Kaula people that the cost of living out there amounted to only $1 40 a day. They intend to follow the example of the Kaula people with respect to having a good time, and although there are not as many, they have made up their minds to make fully as much noise. Following is a list of the persons to go into quarantine at 11 a. m. today: C. H. Fairer, C. Kaiser, E. P. Low, wife and four children; W. Berlowitz, J. Koch, John Frank and three children, Miss Jessie Neal, M. Harlem, H. Gorman and W. Ormsted. There were more applications for admission, but owing to lack of room at the station it was impossible to accommodate any more.

VOICE OF THE PRESS.

Great praise must be given the republican government of Hawaii for its magnanimity to the despoised Queen Liliuokalani. Their course deserves especial emphasis for the reason that not long ago the newspapers of this country were flooded with lying reports of extreme cruelty to the royalists who rebelled against the present state.

Liliuokalani in justice deserved short shrift. Her course amply warranted such measures as have been taken in other countries with pretenders to the crown. It was the right of the state of Hawaii to treat her as England treated Monmouth. This action of President Dole and his supporters is more than mere magnanimity. It is the profoundest expression of the stability of the Republic of Hawaii that we have heard. If the constitutional government were not firmly entrenched, if the woman possessed power to work her machinations, President Dole could not have set her free. They know where they stand and they are heedless of the designs of traitors. We see here how closely sympathetic Hawaiian feeling is with the spirit of the people of America. They are kind of ours. It is our example they have followed. After five years of bloody war and the sacrifice of countless lives we were enabled to bid Jefferson Davis return to Mississippi unharmed. We bore no malice. We were strong enough to be merciful. The people of Hawaii have demonstrated by their generosity to their foes not less than by their resolution in maintaining constitutional government at the hazard of life that they are real Americans.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Shooting Oil on the Water.

Oil is no longer to be poured on troubled waters. It is to be fired like a shell from a gun. As a wave approaches a shell filled with oil is to be precipitated in its direction. The shell will be perforated with small holes, so that the oil will run out slowly and continue its work for a greater length of time than would otherwise be the case.

DESTRUCTION OF DERELICTS.

Nations May Combine to Remove Dangerous Hulks From the Sea.

There is probability that another effort will be made to secure an international agreement looking to the destruction of derelicts at sea. Great Britain, which first rejected any proposition in that direction, may now ask that a conference be held by which various nations interested in maritime matters may agree upon a plan which will materially assist in destroying these dangers to navigation. Last year the admiralty office of Great Britain considered the question of joint action with the United States in destroying derelicts in the Atlantic ocean, but finally reported against it, holding that the danger to navigation from derelicts was not great and that the method now being pursued would destroy those most dangerous to British shipping interests. But within a month after this report sixteen derelicts were discovered in the pathway of transatlantic steamers and near the Irish coast. This again started the agitation for an international agreement, but whether it will result in a conference is undetermined. The record thus far this year shows that there are not only many derelicts, but that they have been in the track of vessels, resulting in frequent cases in narrow escapes from wrecks.—Washington Star.
